GOOD ROADS

CATECHISM

By H. A. Sommers.

What is state aid to roads?

State aid to roads is financial assistance given by the state to the various counties in road building.

Is it a new question?

No. It has been adopted in 32 other states and in some of them it has been the law for many years.

Have any of the states ever repealed state aid after having once adopted it?

No, for the reason that it yields better returns to the state in increased values than any other tax.

How has the law operated in other states?

It has stopped county graft and county waste in road building, encouraged the counties to build many miles of road that otherwise would not have been built. It also provides for the construction of roads under the supervision of competent road engineers instead of by farmers.

What is the basis upon which state aid is granted?

First, because the state is a unit and what helps any part helps the whole state. Second, because the large cities, railroads and other corporations are thus made to help the farmer build his roads, the farmer having contributed to the growth of the cities and railroads. Third, because there are always some sections that are too poor to build roads without state assistance, just like they are too poor to maintain schools without state assistance.

What special improved conditions can be noted in states which have adopted state aid to roads?

The smallest per cent. of illiteracy, the greatest increase in the value of farm lands, the best schools and the greatest increase in population.

How has road building progressed in states that have not granted aid?

Except in a very few counties, here and there, there has been no improvement in road building in any state which has not granted state aid and in my opinion there never will be.

What are the general effects of good roads?

Good roads stops immigration from the farm, increases attendance at school, encourages the establishment of rural routes, increases the market value of lands, destroys farm isolation and saves the cost of the farmer putting his products upon the market.

What is the cost of bad roads compared with the value of good roads?

I have taken the trouble to calculate on the basis of government reports, and find that bad roads in Kentucky cost more than the entire state tax, or about $2.50 for every man, woman and child in the whole commonwealth. Good roads will save this tax upon the farmers, and under state aid will only cost 25 cents per capita.

What would be some of the effects upon Kentucky under state aid?

There would be built in ten years 10,000 miles of good metal roads. It would stimulate road building in counties where there are no metal roads now. No county would want to pay a state tax to roads without getting some of the benefit of it.

Do you believe that it would do away with the old system of warning in the hands, and the substitution of maintaining the roads by taxation?

The proposed state aid bill provides that no county shall receive the benefits of this act which does not provide a county tax to maintain its roads. There are about 65 counties in Kentucky which have not a single road in them, and which now levy no road tax for maintenance. This condition would disappear in two years under state aid.

Is there any material difference between state aid to schools and state aid to roads?

Yes. There is this material difference. Under state aid to schools, no local tax is required, while under state aid to roads, the county has to levy a local tax and put up dollar for dollar with the state.

Is there any reason why state aid should be especially strong in Kentucky?

I think so, because it has been recognized in the state as right in every form of state expenditure. The state and not the county pays the cost of the judiciary. The state and not the county pays the cost of pauper idiots. The state and not the county pays the cost of maintaining our unfortunate wards, the witness claims in our courts, and maintains our public schools. All of this has been done upon the basis of equalizing the benefits of government according to the wealth or poverty of some section of it. What has been fundamentally recognized is: Kentucky always as applied to all other matters, should apply to roads as well.

Who is to be the head of the road system under state aid?

A competent civil road engineer.

What kind of roads will the state grant aid in building?

Such rock, stone and gravel as is accepted by the state road commissioner.

What is the proposed tax rate and how much will it raise?

Five cents on the $100, and will raise $500,000. This will not be levied if it can be obtained from the present general expenditure fund.

How is it to be distributed?

Each county is entitled to an equal amount. The poorest county in the state can draw out as much as the richest, but no county can draw exceeding $10,000 any one year and can only draw that amount when it puts up $10,000.

Why was this basis adopted?

Because the poorer the county the more it needs state aid, and it would be properly encouraged in road building by being put upon an equality with the rich counties.

How many counties will pay into the state treasury under the proposed law more than they can draw out?

Only five, and they are the five counties which have the largest cities in the state. Louisville will pay one-fifth of the entire tax and the railroads another fifth.

Do you think it is right to make the large cities, the railroads and other corporations pay taxes to help build roads in poorer counties?

I do, for the reason that the farmers have helped to build up the cities and the corporations, and it is simply reciprocity. The cities themselves are all in favor of it, because they are looking to future growth and greater prosperity, by building up the country with good roads.

How will state aid effect what is known as pauper counties?

All but 38 counties in the state are known as pauper counties, that is, they draw out of the state treasury more than they pay in. These counties would draw out of the treasury under state aid from three to ten dollars for every dollar they paid in.

Are any of these counties opposed to the proposed law?

Not unless they are opposed to putting up one dollar to get it back, with from five to ten other dollars sticking to it.

How would it effect the Bluegrass and other counties which have a good system of turnpikes?

So that these counties might share equally in the benefits of the law, the bill proposes aid to the reconstruction of roads as well as to their construction. All of the Bluegrass counties and other turnpike counties can draw out the full quota of $10,000 without additional taxation to aid in the reconstruction of their pikes. They can even decrease their local tax to the amount of the state tax and still have more for the reconstruction of their roads than they have now in addition to the advantage of state supervision, stopping graft in some counties and incompetency in others.

Is there a section allowing a county to bond itself for road building?

A county can bond itself to 5 per cent. of its assessable wealth for road construction when two-thirds of the voters favor the proposition. This will enable some of the mountain counties to sell $10,000 worth of bonds per year, to obtain the money to put up against an equal amount they can draw from the state.

Teachers Selected.

At the election of teachers by the city Council last Friday night Prof. J. S. King, of Ohio county, was selected principal; Miss Mollie Johnson, of this city was chosen as first assistant, and Miss Sarah Thomas, of Smith's Grove, was elected as teacher of the primary department.

Watching the Senatorial Fight

James Suffers in Comparison with Paynter as Big Newspapers View the Two Candidates.

The big newspapers of the country are watching with a good deal of interest the fight being waged in Kentucky between United States Senator Thos. H. Paynter and Congressman Ollie James for the seat in the Senate now so capably occupied by the first named, and their comment on the methods of Mr. James in his campaign should be of interest to the Democratic voters as giving them an insight into what the people of other states think of the man and the character of contest he is waging, as well as giving their opinions of Paynter as a statesman and member of the Senate.

In a recent comment, Leslie's Weekly said of James:—"It is too bad that we have so many of the Ollie James type in our legislative bodies—who think there is nothing in the world for a public man to do but to seek to gain political advantage, to capture votes and to attract attention."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, discussing the Lorimer case, says: "That Senator Paynter should appeal to his colleagues to act as judges, considering the law and the facts only, and disregarding alike the clamors of faction and the menaces of power, is entirely natural when we remember the life and character of the man."

A Washington dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer, at the time the "long and short haul" railroad proposition was before the United States Senate, a year ago, read—"Senator Aldrich was completely routed upon the long and short haul proposition in the open Senate this afternoon. By a vote of 57 to 10 the Paynter amendment, declaring it unlawful for a railroad to charge more for a short than for a longer haul was adopted." This is the same Mr. Aldrich with whom Congressman James would have Kentucky Democrats believe Senator Paynter is in league.

Another Washington dispatch, this time to the Louisville Courier-Journal, relative to the Employers' Liability Amendment, introduced by Senator Paynter, which provides that no case arising under this act and brought in any state court of competent jurisdiction shall be moved to any court of the United States, says:—"The adoption of this amendment is regarded as of great importance, because it is a step toward restoring to the states the rights and control of matters which have been claimed by the Democrats to be the rights of the states under the Constitution. Heretofore efforts to modify Federal laws so as to give state courts jurisdiction of matters arising under acts of Congress and to change the law as to removal of actions from State to Federal courts have been ineffectual."

Of Senator Paynter's work in securing this amendment, Senator Hale, long a leader in the upper branch of Congress, said: "This is a noteworthy advance in the direction of maintaining the constantly dwindling force of State jurisdiction and State control. I congratulate the Senate upon having taken the first step in the right direction."

John Callan O'Laughlin, one of the brightest and best known newspaper men at the National Capital, recently reviewed Senator Paynter's brief career in the Senate. At one point he wrote: "When Paynter arrived in Washington he quickly made himself felt in the Senate Chamber and was given an honor extended to few new Senators, being placed upon the important Judiciary Committee. The Senator has been active in connection with the tariff, the railroad rate, the postal savings and the Federal Incorporation bill. He strongly advocated lower duties on all materials used by the press, insisting it was important to the Nation that independent newspapers should flourish. He also has shown a marked knowledge of international as well as ordinary law. In short, he is regarded as a valuable addition to the United States Senate."

The foregoing gives in brief fashion, the opinion from outside Kentucky of Senator Paynter's worth as a member of the Federal Senate from Kentucky showing that, from the first, he has taken front rank among the leaders of thought in the Nation, and is today in position where he can accomplish much, if retained in his position, not only of benefit to the State and Nation, but add to the lustre of Kentucky, which has furnished many of the country's greatest statesmen.

Hanna's Green Seal "The Made-to-Wear Paint"

If you expect to do any painting, you are interested—you should be—in the quality of the paint to be used. In any given job of painting, labor represents practically two-thirds, material one-third the cost. It stands to reason that with so much expense in labor, the enduring quality of the paint is all important. Why have the painting done unless the protection and durability of the job is sought? How is one to determine the true value and obtain paint that may be depended upon for durability? HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT IS NOT A SECRET. This paint has the printed formula on every package. The makers have confidence and take pride in the quality and tell the public the composition of the paint. IS THIS OF ANY VALUE TO YOU? IT OUGHT TO BE. FOR SALE BY

Crop Report.

In the monthly crop report of M. C. Rankin, Commissioner of Agriculture, for June, it is shown that the drouth and hot weather of May has had a bad effect on crops over the whole State. The oats crop seems to have suffered most. The following is the report showing the condition of the standard crops:

Our reports show that throughout the State during the month of May that very little rainfall was had, a general drouth prevailing almost over the entire State. Some sections reported no rain for the entire month, while others reported light showers during the latter part of May. All crops have suffered greatly from the drouth, corn suffering least.

"The intense heat of the entire month, the thermometer often registering above 90 in the shade, together with the excessive dry weather, has been very detrimental to all growing crops.

Proposed Good Roads Laws.

We this week publish an outline of the proposed good roads law. Every reader of the Times should not fail to read every word of it and work to the end of good roads for Kentucky. If his law should pass, there is a chance for such counties as Powell to get some good roads, otherwise there seems to be none.
